CLIC SARGENT

APL Avenue Show Garden
at BBC Gardeners' World Live

NEC Birmingham

15-18 June 2017

Pro Garden's inspiration for its APL Avenue Show Garden is a charity garden that supports CLIC Sargent, a charity that provides specialist support for young cancer patients and their families. Pro-Gardens in-house Garden Designer Jamie Langlands commented, "The charity does incredible work and we wanted to help raise awareness and funds for them. We're calling it the CLIC Sargent Garden and the charity's representatives will be at the show talking about some of the work that they do."

He added, "It's going to feel like a very real and very loved garden, which is one of our biggest challenges – creating something that was built and planted in just two weeks, that already looks established."

In order to create that level of authenticity the garden includes birds nests in the trees, as well as moss growing on plants and grass sprouting between the paving stones. Everything in the garden has been sourced locally, and for the last few months the Pro Garden's team have been busy trying to find established plants to use, and reclaimed material to build the garden's folly and table.
